Dear Mr. President:

For the past month I have been researching the problem of Soviet spies in America, and how they threaten U.S. security. Drawn from my conclusions, this is a major problem that needs more attention than it is apparently receiving.

I know that our free society makes it very easy for the K.G.B. to find information, which benefits the Soviets. I think the security on guarding things that could be beneficial to the Soviets should be paid more attention. Since much of the Soviets information is received legally, there should be restrictions on what the public can obtain. The C.I.A. should be free to tap and follow whomever it wants not burdened by any rule that it must show grounds to suspect criminality.

With respect to the K.G.B. penetrating many major corporations, I feel this should be a prime concern. The C.I.A. should do more to watch people considered to have dealings with the soviets.

I also feel it would be very beneficial if the U.S. would push harder to get other countries in N.A.T.O. to help us by tightening trade policies with the Soviet Union. Japan and nations of N.A.T.O. are pledged to cooperate with Washington in curbing militarily useful exports to Russia. It's now time the U.S. made the N.A.T.O. nations live up to their promises!!!

Very truly yours
